(1462-1515) Louis XII

King of France (1498-1515). Son of Charles, Duke of Orleans, and Successor of Charles VIII. His reign was marked by mildness & wisdom so that the King was called the "Father of the People." In 1499 he laid claim to the kingdom of MILAN and overthrew LUOVICO SFORZA and took the city. In 1500 he formed the Treaty of GRANADA with Ferdinand by which the conquest and division of NAPLES was agreed upon. The monarchs quarreled over the division, and in 1503 the French were driven out of southern Italy. In 1508 Louis joined the pope; Ferdinand; and the emperor Maximilian, in the League of Cambrai against Venice. In 1509 Louis gained the battle of AGNADELLO and crushed Venice. In 1511, the pope; Venice; Ferdinand and Henry VIII of England formed the Holy League against France which was driven out of Italy in 1512. In 1513 England gained the battle of SPORS. Louis was succeeded by his son-in-law, Francis I of Angoulême
